OPPOSITION TO TABERNACLE IS REVEALED TUES.

Fourteen Property Owners Ask Council To Reverse Action

Opposition to the erection of a tabernacle on Highland Avenue between first and second streets for the holding of the Cantrell evangelistic services beginning next month, appeared at last evening's session of the city council in the form of a petition bearing 14 signatures. The petition asked the council to rescind its action of the previous week when the permit was granted for the construction of the tabernacle, charging that it was a fire hazard and would be the cause of increasing insurance rates.

Rev. J. A. Barnett addressed the council as secretary of the Cantrell evangelistic committee and conveyed the thanks of the committee to the council for granting the permit for the construction of the tabernacle. He explained that Guy B. Wagner, secretary of the Cantrell Company, had visited in Dixon some time ago, inspecting suitable sites for holding the meetings and that the location selected was the most central. He further explained that the plans for the tabernacle provided a fire-proof roof, the structure being fully covered with insurance and an attendant present at all times, the building to be dismantled immediately at the close of the services. He told the council that the committee was willing to meet with any of the objecting property owners and arrange to pay the increased insurance rate for the period.

Purpose Explained

In his talk, Rev. Barnett stated that a survey conducted two years ago in Dixon revealed the fact that 4,000 residents of the city are without church affiliation and the purpose of the evangelistic services, sponsored at present by eight Dixon churches, with others probably joining later, was to reach the non-church people of the city.

City Attorney Martin Gannon told the council that the evangelistic committee was prepared and ready to execute a satisfactory bond for the protection of property in the neighborhood selected for the erection of the tabernacle, to which Commissioner H. A. Brooks added: "The tabernacle could not be much more hazardous than some of the buildings now standing in that section."

The petition of W. A. Schuler to erect an electric sign at his place of business, 321-323 First street was granted.

Milk Report Made

The mayor informed the council that Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber had collected two more sets of samples of milk supplied to Dixon citizens, which had been tested. Commissioner George Campbell added that the milk ordinance had been drafted but would not be submitted for passage at this meeting pending further consideration, but stressed the fact that he stood for the rigid enforcement of the penalties attached upon its passage. The report of the milk tests as given out by the mayor was as follows:

Cross Dairy No. 15-46 butterfat; 13.06 total solids; sediment, good; bacteria per c. c. 24,000.

Stage Driver Held For Manslaughter

Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 24—(AP)—With the death in a local hospital last night of Albert McFarland, 53, of Shelbyville, Ind., the death list of the collision of a transcontinental train with an oil tank truck near Mohawk, Ariz., last Saturday, reached four.

A coroner's jury at Wilson yesterday held the accident was caused by negligence of George Blair, driver of the stage, and recommended he be tried for manslaughter.

EDITORIAL

LEN SMALL

Len Small, as Governor of Illinois, did more for Lee County than all the Governors of the last fifty years combined.

Len Small built our roads, developed our state hospital, kept our cement factory going, made Dixon the headquarters for the State Highway Department in this district and performed countless acts that were of great benefit to Dixon and Lee County.

Len Small is the only candidate for Governor who has ever been Governor of Illinois. We know Len Small is a GOOD governor. He has proven his worth and ability and integrity against odds and under the most trying conditions.

What kind of a Governor any of the other candidates might make if they could be elected is uncertain.

The Telegraph sincerely believes that Len Small is the only candidate on the Republican ticket who can be elected if nominated. We also sincerely believe that Len Small will be elected if nominated, and that Republicanism will thereby be preserved in Illinois.

We believe that Lee County owes it to Len Small to give him a great majority in the April primary, not only in the interests of preserving Republicanism in Illinois, but as a mark of gratitude for the vast benefits he has given to Lee County in the past, and with the certainty that Len Small's election would bring great benefits to all the state in the immediate future.

LEN SMALL-FOR-GOVERNOR CLUB IS FORMED HERE

Enthusiastic Meeting At Court House In Dixon Last Eve

At a meeting held last evening at the Court House a Lee County Len Small-for-Governor Club was formed and a start was made toward an organization, which is believed destined to grow into a county-wide group that will have a powerful influence in the coming Republican primary election in April.

At the motion of George Shaw, editor of The Evening Telegraph, the club members elected Judge William L. Leech of Dixon as chairman and Oliver L. Gehant of West Brooklyn as secretary. An executive committee is to be named later and another meeting is scheduled soon.

The tone of last night's meeting was distinctly optimistic and Small supporters from all over the county gave glowing accounts of the enthusiastic reception given the former Governor's candidacy.

From present indications Len Small will carry Lee County without a doubt and will receive a much larger vote here than ever before.

TREASURER MAY DEPOSIT MONEY IN ANY CO. BANK

Supervisors Took Action Under New Law At Monday Meet

All of the banks of Lee county which are now doing business have been selected as depositories to receive the funds of County Treasurer and ex-officio County Collector Sterling D. Schrock, through action of the Board of Supervisors, assembled in special session yesterday afternoon at the court house. The Finance committee submitted a resolution to the board which was unanimously adopted, naming the following bank institutions as county depositories, subject to certain restrictions of law:

Dixon National Bank of Dixon. City National Bank of Amboy. Ashion Bank of Ashion. State Bank of Paw Paw. Farmers State Bank of Sublette. First National Bank of Steward. Franklin Grove Bank of Franklin Grove.

H. F. Gehant Banking Co. of West Brooklyn.

Harmon State Bank of Harmon.

Washington Committee.

The educational committee presented a report to the board at the afternoon session, recommending the selection of the present chairman to act as honorary chairman of the County George Washington Bi-centennial Committee. Chairman Walter Ortgiesen sought to transfer the honor to the incoming chairman to be selected at the next meeting of the board next month, but the board voted for the resolution and Chairman Ortgiesen appointed the following five supervisors to assist him on this committee: Henry Gehant, Dixon; William Griese, Ashton; Charles Ramsdell, Franklin Grove; Gilbert P. Finch, Amboy and Henry Knetsch of Paw Paw.

No plan was outlined for a county-wide celebration of the George Washington Bi-centennial, but several members of the board spoke favoring the selection of the first day of the annual Lee county fair at Amboy next summer. It was contended that the location of the fair grounds was central and accessible to all parts of the county and would provide an excellent location for such a celebration which could be held on a much more elaborate scale than in the individual localities, where Washington's birthday was celebrated with fitting programs the first of this week.

Some discussion arose when the road and bridge committee presented its reports and recommendation which granted a permit to the National Gas Pipe Line Company of America, formerly the Continental Construction Corporation, to construct a 20-inch natural gas pipe line across Marion, South Dixon, Natchez and China townships.

Grant Pipe Line Permit

Supervisor Kugler of Harmon township told the board that a pipe line company which several months ago built their line in Harmon township had paid no heed to repeated reports of conditions left in a road in the township, and asked who would pay the township highway commissioner for his services in such cases. The Harmon supervisor alone opposed the granting of the permit and in the customary way the affirmative vote, the majority was in the affirmative, but the negative vote was much louder and a roll call vote was asked for. Charles Ramsdell, China, Seth Anderson, East Grove, C. B. Keigwin, Hamilton and Frank Kugler of Harmon voted in opposition to the measure the final vote standing 20 to 4 for adoption.

As the board meeting drew to a close, Supervisor William Avery of May township asked the supervisors what reduction was contemplated in the compensation of road commissioners, judges and clerks of township elections this spring.

Chairman Ortgiesen raised the question of selection of a chairman and the time for the holding of the annual organization meeting of the board. It was decided to elect the new chairman of the board as the final matter of business at the regular March meeting of the board.

FIRE AT BARSTOW

Moline, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—Damage estimated at $45,000 was caused by a fire last night which destroyed a gas-electric railway car and roundhouse of the C. B. & Q. railroad at Barstow.

The fire is believed to have started when oil fumes were ignited by a broken electric light bulb.

Mrs. August Krug Died This Morning

Mrs. August Krug passed away at her home, 617 Palmyra road, this morning at 4:15, death resulting from pneumonia with which she was stricken last Friday. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Helen and one son Augustus at home. Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Immanuel Lutheran church, Rev. A. G. Suechting officiating, and with interment in Oakwood.

The obituary will be published later.

LEE COUNTY TO GET $28,370.68 FROM GAS TAXES

Is County's Share Of Collection For Last Half of Last Year

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—A fund of $5,148,993.56 collected as gasoline tax in the last half of 1931 was divided among Illinois' counties today. Cook county was allotted $2,387,043.08.

Director G. D. Kinney of the State Department of Finance announced the apportionment and the total collection of gasoline taxes for the last half year as $16,505,508.39 which brought the total for last year up to $30,495,596.29. Of that amount one third went to the counties, and the rest to the state Highway Department.

Computed on the percentage of last year's motor license fees which totaled $18,426,498, the apportionment to the counties in Dixon district was as follows:

Lee, $28,370.68; Bureau, $35,069.00; Carroll, $17,028.73; DeKalb, $31,505.66; Ogle, $26,006.62; Rock Island, $76,157.56; Stephenson, $33,151.52; Whiteside, $38,228.09; LaSalle, $79,075.97; Winnebago, $100,442.08.

Whitney In Defense Of "Short Selling"

Washington, Feb. 24—(UP)—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said today before the House Judiciary committee that the exchange would have been closed a month ago if it had not been for the stabilizing effect of short selling.

Whitney was testifying in connection with proposed legislation to regulate short selling. He defended the practice, saying that without it the market for securities could not have been maintained after the 1929 collapse.

Whitney contended that without short selling there would have been a crash of values which would have had "disastrous effects" on the entire country.

"I personally cannot see why it should be wrong to borrow stock when it is not wrong to borrow money," he said.

He asserted that protection of the market by short selling is an essential to stabilization of values.

The exchange's regulation to prevent lending of stock without the consent of the customer, he said, was to clarify the exchange's position. This goes into effect April 1.

Mrs. Jas. Mayborn Of Polo Is Called

(Telegraph Special Service)

Polo, Feb. 24—Mrs. James Mayborn passed away this morning at 2 o'clock at her home on North Franklin street, death resulting from pneumonia, with which she was stricken last Saturday. Sarah Guio was the daughter of Solomon and Mary Guio and was born on a farm near Polo, March 2, 1873. She had spent her entire life time in this vicinity.

She was united in marriage 37 years ago to James Mayborn, who survives her with two daughters, Mrs. Nellie Briscoe and Mrs. Bernice Strub of Chicago; one son, Wayne of Polo; six grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Mary Guio of Polo; three sisters, Miss Rose of Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Lillian Heyworth of El Paso, Tex.; four brothers, Alva of Indianapolis, Ind.; Amos of Rochelle, Henry and George of Los Angeles, Cal. She was a member of the Rebekah lodge of this city and the First Methodist church.

BURNED BY ACID.

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—The Rev. Robert Williams, Negro, of Chicago, Miss Naomi Surprenant of Momence and George Lindsay of Harvey were burned by acid from the battery of a Kankakee-to-Chicago bus when it turned over in a ditch east of here last night. Lindsay was driving. All will recover.

United Action for Employment

Organizations, including a veterans organization, clubs, lodges, unions, and a number of business houses that have not yet joined in the War Against Depression were today invited through this newspaper, to join.

The War Against Depression has for its slogan "United Action for Employment," and its aim is to find work for a million workers now unemployed.

Four organizations are joined in sponsoring this movement. They are the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor, the Association of National Advertisers and the Legion Auxiliary.

These organizations are supported by more than a score of co-operating organizations in all fields, bringing a total of twenty million supporters to the campaign.

The four sponsor organizations conclude that no group acting alone could restore employment.

Hoarded '87 Dollar Would Have Made $29.19

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 24—(UP)—A silver dollar given by a U. S. mint worker, to S. C. Carpenter in 1887 was displayed today in the anti-hoarding campaign. Carpenter did not place the dollar in the bank. After some years he gave it to his son who presented it to his niece.

If the dollar had been placed in the bank, it was pointed out, it would have earned $29.19 at 6 per cent compound interest to this date.

PING PONG TOURNAMENT

A ping pong tournament will open at the Recreation parlors Thursday evening of this week. Twenty entries have already been received and it is expected that the remaining number, bringing the total to 32 will be forthcoming before the opening of the tourney. No entry fee is required and several fine prizes have been offered for the tournament winners.

SEE NEW LIFE-SAVER

Members of the police and fire departments this afternoon were attending a demonstration of a life-saving device, which last evening was inspected by several Dixon physicians. The respirator was demonstrated to the city council members a few weeks ago and it is possible that one of the devices may be purchased by the city to supplant the equipment now in use and the fire department headquarters.

Wheaton Man Leaps To Death This Morn

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 24—(UP)—H. C. McGuiness, 48, of Wheaton Illinois fell or jumped to his death today from the tenth floor of the Boyle building.

Police learned McGuiness was formerly sales manager for the Pine Crest Memorial Cemetery here. They believed he jumped to his death.

It is understood McGuiness was in the city to arrange his business affairs preparatory to leaving for Memphis.

His body was lodged on the roof of an adjoining second story building when police were called. No one witnessed his death plunge.

A wife and an adopted son, believed to be residents of Little Rock were sought by police.

STIMSON STANDS ON 'OPEN DOOR' IN FAR EAST HE SAYS

U. S. Tells World There Has Been No Reason To Change Policy

Washington, Feb. 24—(UP)—Secretary of State Stimson today announced to the world that the United States would stand by its "open door" policy in the Orient. He also indirectly charged Japan with violating the Nine Power Treaty and the Kellogg Peace Pact. Had these treaties been "faithfully observed" the present situation in China could not have developed, he maintained.

He further affirmed that if the Nine Power Treaty were disregarded the whole structure of the Washington Treaty of 1922 would be disturbed. By this treaty the United States limited its naval power in the Pacific and agreed not to strengthen its fortifications in that area.

By the 1922 treaty the United States, Stimson pointed out, surrendered "its then commanding lead in battleship construction." It also agreed not to strengthen its naval bases at Guam and in the Philippines. These "self denying covenants" he pointed out, were made because of assurance that the Open Door policy in the Far East would be preserved and that no nation would resort to "military aggrandizement" in China.

In Letter To Borah

The statement, which may go down in diplomatic history as a corollary of the famous "Open Door" policy of Secretary of State John Hay, was made in the form of a letter to Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

After tracing the rise of the "Open Door" policy of free trade in China and its formal acceptance by the world powers in 1922, Stimson called attention to the Briand-Kellogg peace pact saying: "The recent events which have taken place in China, especially the hostilities which, having been begun in Manchuria, have latterly been extended to Shanghai, far from indicating the advisability of any modification of the treaties we have been discussing have tended to bring home the vital importance of the faithful observance of the covenants therein to all the nations interested in the Far East."

No Reason For Change

"We see no reason for abandoning the enlightened principles which are embodied in these treaties. We believe that this situation would have been avoided had these covenants been faithfully observed, and no evidence has come to us to indicate that a due compliance with them would have interfered with the adequate protection of the legitimate rights in China of the signatories of those treaties and their nationals."

This statement was regarded as an answer to Japan's contention in its reply to Stimson's note of January 7, that present conditions in China were not foreseen at the time of the Nine Power Pact, guaranteeing Chinese sovereignty, was signed. A further answer was made in the following paragraph: "The delays in Chinese progress, the instability of her attempts to secure responsible government, were foreseen by Messrs. Hay (who proclaimed the Open Door policy) and Hughes and the contentions of the Chinese and the very obstacles which the policy of the Open Door was designed to meet."

"We concur with those statesmen, representing all the nations nations in the Washington conference who declared that China was entitled to the time necessary to accomplish her development. We are prepared to make that our policy in the future."

Wing Foo Sam Got His Old Job Back

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Wing Foo Sam was discharged from his job in a chop suey establishment yesterday, but he got it back again. Here's how: The girl cashier got a telephone order, and asked Wing Foo Sam to do his stuff.

"It's for a darn nice chap I know," she said.

Shortly thereafter the customer called up again. He wanted to know who put three ounces of red pepper in the order.

It was then that Wing Foo Sam was fired, but the boss rehired him when he explained that he thought the girl cashier had said "Jap," not chap.

Oldest Princetonian Died During Night

Princeton, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—S. P. Clark, 95, oldest resident of Princeton died last night. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon.

Vitamin "D" has been found in appreciable quantities in salmon oil, fresh salmon and other salmon products.

War Summarized

(By the Associated Press)

General Kenkichi Ueyeda's Japanese army made another push toward Kiangwan today but failed again, to dislodge its Chinese defenders and suddenly switched its attack to the Chapel end of the Chapel-Woosung battlefield.

Military observers deduced that the Japanese had assumed a defensive attitude by that maneuver and were awaiting reinforcements promised by Tokio.

The Cantonese General Tsai Ting Kai, commander of the 19th Route Army, which stopped the Japanese offensive, from his headquarters at Chenju back of the Chinese lines told newspapermen that he expected the Japs to get 60,000 more troops. This would bring the Japanese force to 85,000 in the Shanghai area.

The Japanese government meanwhile clamped down a censorship on the movement of the Shanghai reinforcements, and all the public knew was that more men and a new general were going to the battle zone.

Secretary of State Henry Stimson in Washington took a hand in Far Eastern affairs again in an open letter to Chairman William E. Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. He declared the United States stood firmly behind the Open Door policy in China and disputed the Japanese claim that the Nine Power Treaty should be revised because China was not able to maintain order.

SHERIFF OF NEW YORK IS OUSTED BY ROOSEVELT

Governor Is Not Satisfied With Farley's Explanations

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Governor of New York, today removed from office Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, district leader of Tammany Hall's keystone unit.

The Governor said he was not satisfied with Farley's explanation of his income and it was mainly on this ground that he removed him. The income, as charged by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the legislative committee investigating the city's administration, related primarily to Farley's "wonderful tin box" in which the huge Sheriff deposited $390,000 over a period of a few years.

The removal of the Tammany Hall man was construed by some to mean that Roosevelt had thrown down a gauntlet to Tammany challenging it to oppose his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination at next June's national convention. Others, however, believed that the Governor's action had no political significance and that his dismissal of Farley was an action entirely against the Sheriff and had no connection with his feelings toward Tammany Hall.

The Hall had been expected by some political observers to retaliate for the removal by throwing its strength to some anti-Roosevelt unit.

Farley, on his part, said he would give his support to Roosevelt's candidacy regardless of what action the Governor might take in his case—if the Tammany Hall organization itself turned its convention support to Roosevelt.

Although he did not base his removal order on Farley's personal appropriation of interest on funds of litigants, the Governor criticized this "highly improper practice" which had been "long continued."

REFUSES COMMENT

New York, Feb. 22—(AP)—Thomas M. Farley remained in the seclusion of Flower Hospital today and refused to make any statement on the Governor's decision to oust him as Sheriff of New York county.

Chicken Thief Is Killed By Officer

Elwood, Ind., Feb. 24—(UP)—Hovert Wells, 28, died today in a hospital of bullet wounds received when he and two other alleged chicken thieves fought a gun battle with two policemen last night. Robert Eurick, 25, was captured, and a search was ordered for Alvey Hilton, Wells' half brother, in the belief he was the third member of the coop-raiding party and had been wounded.

The three were surprised by Police Chief Lewis Startzman and Patrolman McBride at a vacant house where a sack of stolen chickens had been cached.

GLASS STOPS BULLETS.

Chicago, Feb. 24—(UP)—Two bandits fired three shots at George E. Gee, Jr., cashier, in an attempted holdup of the Orland Park State Bank today, but the bullets rattled harmlessly against the bullet proof glass of Gee's cage. The bandits stood astonished for a moment, then turned and fled.

REPULSED JAP FORCES AWAIT FRESH TROOPS

Artillery Bombardment Only Development on Battle Front

BULLETIN

Washington, Feb. 24—(AP)—Admiral M. M. Taylor, Commander of the Asiatic Fleet, reported to the Navy today that the Italian cruiser, Ibia at Shanghai had been struck by a Chinese shell and its side pierced. No other details were disclosed.

The Admiral advised the Department, however, that he had urged the commanding officer of the ship, Ibia, to use force because if the Chinese again struck his vessel.

The Ibia's Commander informed Taylor he would return fire if hit again. Taylor suggested to him that such action would be in error unless there was evidence of intentional and sustained shelling by the Chinese. The British and the French senior naval officer concurred in Taylor's suggestion.

Admiral William V. Pratt in a dispatch to Taylor told him he "heartily approved" the suggestion to the Italian officer.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) (Copyright, 1932, by United Press.) Shanghai, Feb. 24—(UP)—Chinese artillery, mounted on railway trucks, bombarded the Japanese wharves in the International Settlement tonight. The shelling was caused by reports that the Japanese were preparing to land reinforcements.

A Japanese air squadron dropped nine bombs tonight on the Lung-hua and Chenju railroad stations, damaging the platforms and destroying nearby cottages, although the railway was undamaged.

Chenju is due north of the Settlement in the Kiangwan battle area. Lunghua is in another direction, on the Whangpo, a tributary southwest of the French concession. Mayor Wu Teh-Chen of Greater Shanghai protested again tonight to Edwin S. Cunningham, United States Consul General, against the landing of Japanese troops in the International Settlement.

Wu disclaimed responsibility for foreign lives in the event Chinese defensive actions are necessary.

He suggested evacuation of foreigners from areas within the Japanese defense sector of the Settlement, which appeared to indicate that a real bombardment of that part of the Settlement might be contemplated.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) (Copyright, 1932, by United Press.) Shanghai, Feb. 24—(UP)—Chinese defenders of the ruins of Tazang worked desperately today to strengthen the death trap they have prepared for the Japanese 9th Division, knowing full well that 25,000 Japanese fighting men are speeding to the aid of the invaders.

Chinese infantry meanwhile attacked on the entire Chapel front, at International Settlement, after shelling the Japanese with heavy artillery fire.

Japanese activities centered on mopping up snipers in Kiangwan village.

Reports that an offensive was started Wednesday were denied officially by Japanese headquarters, where it was said that the Tazang front was quiet at 5:30 P. M. (4:30 A. M. EST.).

Japs Wait Reinforcements

An official Chinese statement said all fronts were "virtually quiet" Wednesday as the Japanese awaited reinforcements. The Chinese claimed they were holding Kiangwan and Miao-ch

Barney Oldfield To Try For Speed Mark

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Barney Oldfield, who had his heyday back in the time when automobile cylinders were big as buckets and the horse still was in good standing, plans to take to the roaring road again hoping to win back the land speed record for the United States.
The dean of American race drivers divulged his plans today while here to witness Sir Malcolm Campbell's scheduled attempt to break the record of 245 miles an hour that the Englishman already holds.
Oldfield said he is planning a car that will surpass any record that Campbell might establish here with his big Bluebird racing machine. He hopes to have the car in readiness for trials in February, 1932.
Oldfield, working with Harry A. Miller, veteran American race car builder, said he already has drawn up plans for a record contending machine, powered with two 16-cylinder engines of 1400 horsepower each.

Century Air Lines Service Is Resumed

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Officials of the Century Air Lines announced resumption today of full daylight schedules on all its routes where interruptions of service occurred with the recent discharge of 23 pilots in a wage controversy.
The daylight schedules call for two round trips daily between Chicago and St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland. The flights requiring some night flying, however, will remain suspended until the officials said.
Of 18 pilots hired by Century to replace the discharged, eight have been approved by the Department of Commerce and 10 are to complete qualifying tests within a few days. E. A. Currell, Department of Commerce Aeronautics Inspector here, said.

Board Of Inquiry To Probe Akron Mishap

Philadelphia, Feb. 24—(AP)—An inquiry of the recent accident to the dirigible Akron at Lakehurst, N. J., began today under the direction of a special board appointed by Rear Admiral Lucius A. Bostwick, Commandant of the Fourth Naval District.
The board, which will try to determine how the Navy's huge airship broke a restraining cable and damaged the rear portion in a stiff wind Monday near its hangar, will consist of three members headed by Commander Sidney M. Kraus, manager of Naval Aircraft at the Philadelphia Naval Yard.
The other two members of the board are Commander Alfred T. Clay, operations officer at Lakehurst, and Commander A. H. Dresel, formerly commanding officer of the dirigible Los Angeles.

Veterans' Rights To Peddle Are Upheld

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court has upheld the right of war veterans to peddle apples or anything else without a license.
The decision was forwarded here from Springfield yesterday and reversed Superior Judge Ross C. Hall, who has held in a test case brought by George Maralis, a veteran, that licenses must be procured.
Maralis sought to restrain Chicago and Park police from arresting him whenever he tried to sell apples on the streets.
The Supreme Court acknowledged that excepting the veterans from license requirements was a favor but added it was a favor the state could legally grant.

Protest Broadcast Of Titanic Tragedy

London, Feb. 24—(AP)—Numerous protests have been made against the proposal of the British Broadcasting Corporation to present a radio representation of the sinking of the Titanic.
"That horrible scene will always haunt me," Sir Arthur Rostron, who commanded the Carpathia when she rescued the Titanic's survivors, wrote to the company. Other critics suggested the feature might be more suitable fifty years from now.

quiet" during the night despite the fact that the Japanese had suspended their offensive to await the arrival of fresh troops. A brisk exchange of artillery fire began at 2 A. M. and continued until dawn. Several shells fell inside the International Settlement.
Chinese snipers in the Tazang area are kept up their fire. Defenders of Tazang dug in among the ruins of the prosperous town blasted away by Japanese shell fire and aerial bombardment until only two buildings of any size remained standing.
While there were no immediate plans for evacuation of Americans from the Settlement, Consular officials learned that six American missionaries at a Lutheran mission at Kwangchow, in southeast Honan province, were threatened by bandits. The United States Consul at Hankow requested protection from Chinese provincial troops.
Foreign forces available for defense of the Settlement were increased with arrival of the British destroyers Wild Swan and Verity from Swatow.
After my tour yesterday along both Japanese and Chinese lines at the front, I realized better than many of my compatriots here the danger to which foreigners might be subjected. My visit to Tazang—the Chinese characters literally translated mean "great open spaces"—gave me moments of terror and depression.
CAN HOLD "LONG TIME"
Shanghai, China, Feb. 24—(AP)—General Tsai Ting-Kai, commander of the Chinese Route Army which is defending Shanghai, told a group of 40 newspaper correspondents at his headquarters at Chenju today that the Japanese were sending 60,000 additional troops to reinforce General Uyeda's army here.
This would bring the total Japanese force at Shanghai to upwards of 85,000 men. He said China's army was able to resist the Japanese attack for a long time to come and the appearance of the Chinese soldiers in their almost bomb proof maze of trenches stretching for miles gave some indication that his estimate might be correct.
"Tell the world this truth," he said to the newspapermen who were invited to his headquarters to be guests at a tea conference. "My army could force the Japanese out of Chinese territory quickly but we are not taking the offensive because we want peace and we want to preserve the neutrality of the International Settlement."
The newspapermen were invited to tea by General Tsai at his headquarters at Chenju, five miles behind the Chinese lines, after the Japanese army had cancelled all passes to go within its lines during the day.
General Tsai received his guests at the converted villa which is serving as the seat of the Chinese military operations. While the correspondents gathered about the wood stove in the room which had once been the villa's parlor, the young poet-commander apologized because he actually had no tea to offer. The correspondents' first questions were inquiries regarding where the entrance to the generals' bombproof cellar might be reached.
"To Save China"
Tokio, Feb. 24—(AP)—Japan believes that the powers should agree to "a more realistic application" of the International treaties regarding China, a foreign office spokesman said today, commenting on the Japanese reply to the latest note of the League of Nations Council on the Sino-Japanese dispute.
The spokesman denied, however, that Japan planned to propose a revision or abrogation of the treaties applying to China, but he said the Tokyo government was convinced some form of international intervention is necessary to "save China." This, he said, was the "natural implication of Japan's statement on its inability to consider China an organized people."
Up to now, he added, the powers have merely agreed to keep hands off China and to "let China stew her own juice."
"We believe," he said, "that it is time something positive were done although we have no concrete suggestions now except that for demilitarized zones" regarding which the Foreign Office issued a feeler a fortnight ago.
For the second time this month official secrecy has closed over important military developments in Japan, and an active censorship has kept out of the newspapers information concerning preparations for increasing the expeditionary force to Shanghai.

This was by order of the cabinet, the Ministry apparently believing that control of the news might disguise the serious view which the government takes of the situation in Shanghai.
A few early editions of yesterday's evening newspapers managed to print a brief report of the cabinet's decision to send more men to China, but that was the only information most of the people have had.
WOULD HONOR HERO
Shanghai, Feb. 24—(AP)—T. V. Soong, former Finance Minister of the Chinese Nationalist government, said today he was telegraphing the mother of Robert Short, American flyer reported shot down and killed at Soochow yesterday in an engagement with Japanese planes, asking her to allow her son to be buried in China.
He said the National government wished to give him a military funeral and to grant him posthumous honors within the aviation service.
General Tsai Ting-Kai, commander of the Chinese Army here told newspapermen at his headquarters today that he was advised from Nanking that Short was killed at Soochow "while flying a commercial plane." The Le Gale Company, however, American importers of Boeing airplanes such as Short was flying when he left Shanghai last Friday for Nanking to deliver a plane to the Chinese government, said the plane in question was a military pursuit ship carrying two machine guns fully equipped with ammunition.
It was learned here today that Japanese authorities planned to lodge a protest with the United States government over the case.

Mooney's Mother To Appear At Meet

New York, Feb. 24—(UP)—Mrs. Mary Mooney, white haired, 84 year old mother of Thomas J. Mooney, and Corliss Lamont, son of a Morgan partner, will speak from the same platform tonight in a mass demonstration on the 15th anniversary of Mooney's death sentence.
The feeble mother made the trip across country against advice of her physicians who feared it might be fatal, so that she might lead the Mooney sympathizers expected at Bronx Coliseum.
"I don't care what it means to me," Mrs. Mooney told the doctors, "as long as I can help the fight to free my son."
Mooney is serving a life sentence after conviction and sentence to death on a charge he participated in the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing in 1916.

Part Of "Robbers" Loot Back In Bank

Woodstock, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—W. W. Buck, cashier of the State Bank of nearby Ringwood, reported robbers kidnaped him from the bank and stole $5,000 but $3,000 of that amount made its way back into the vaults over the week-end.
Yesterday Buck confessed, the authorities said, that the robbers overtook the $3,000 and that he took the money himself and returned it Sunday, stricken by conscience. He was arrested and charged with operating a confidence game.
Sheriff Lester Edinger said he would investigate Buck's story to determine whether other charges should be placed against him. The robbery and kidnaping supposedly took place Saturday.

Military Expert Outlines Tactics In Oriental War

(The accompanying comment by General Ely on the battle of Shanghai is based on yesterday's press reports and is of necessity some hours behind actual developments. This will explain occasional apparent contradictions between General Ely's statement and those in dispatches from Shanghai received after his analysis has been written.)

By Major General Hanson E. Ely, U. S. A., Retired.
Written for The United Press. (Copyright, 1932, by The United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 24—(UP)—In the last 24 hours reports show that the continued drive in the neighborhood of Kiangwan has not netted much result for the Japanese. However the right flank has gained Maehang, a point about three miles northwest of Kiangwan and an equal distance northeast of Tazang, the immediate objective.
Captured prisoners and other sources indicate that Chinag Kai-Shek has thrown in the 88th and perhaps the 87th divisions—about 22,000 men—of his forces. The remainder of his troops are north of the Yangtze river, and as the river is controlled by the Japanese fleet, they are not at present available.

The retirement of the headquarters of General Tsai Ping Kai of the Chinese 19th Route Army to a point some seven miles west of Tazang might indicate a further Chinese retirement. The Chinese, however, are constructing camouflaged machine gun emplacements and more trenches in the neighborhood of Tazang, also mines and emplacements for concealed anti-tank guns.
The 19th Route Army is reported to consist of about 35,000 men, many of whom have had several years experience in warfare. In this army are said to be a number of foreign officers, especially ex-German officers with World War experience. The army is well equipped with machine guns, trench mortars and hand grenades and apparently well trained in their use. They have a fair equipment of three-inch guns, a smaller proportion of 4.7 and 6-inch guns but very little heavy artillery.
Their morale is apparently good and they have an abiding hatred for the Japanese.
Heretofore in Chinese questions foreigners have often considered only three viewpoints, the Japanese, the Soviet-Russian viewpoint and the combined United States, Great Britain—all European viewpoint, disregarding almost entirely the Chinese viewpoint itself.
But out of the Shanghai "mess" may come a re-evaluation of future Far-Eastern questions, forced upon the other groups by China herself from her growing consciousness of military power when measured against her highly thought-of military neighbor, Japan. China's defense has been a surprise to her opponent and may open the eyes of other nations to the true value of the Chinese as a soldier when properly led.
In history the deeds of the "ever victorious army" of the early 1860's under the American leader Frederick Townsend ward and under "Chin-nese" Gordon are examples of this.

Stone Age Museum Near State Capital

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24—(UP)—Provision for the establishment of a "Stone Age" museum near Springfield for the exhibition of a vast collection of Stone Age relics is contained in the will of the late Edward W. Payne, Springfield capitalist, on file in Probate Court here today.
Payne's collection of stone age relics is said to be one of the most extensive of its kind in the world. He is reported to have refused numerous offers from museums throughout the world for the collection. One of the offers was reported to have been a million dollars and to have been made by the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C. The will provides that the collection must never be sold.
The will also provides for the purchase of a 200 acre tract near Springfield for the establishment of wild flower and bird preserves.

Forrest O'Brine Is O. K. His Wife Says

St. Louis Mo., Feb. 24—(UP)—Mrs. Forrest O'Brine, wife of the endurance record flier, today told police that he husband whom she reported yesterday had been "kidnaped" had called her and informed her he was "all right."
She told officers he did not say where he had been or where he was.
Police had previously declared they were certain the flier would reappear soon.
Confusing stories told by Mrs. O'Brine concerning the "kidnap" episode led them to drop investigation of the case.

TRIM MILLIONS FROM P. O. AND TREAS. DEPTS.

But More Than Off-set It In Sinking Fund For Public Debt

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Many millions of dollars carefully culled from next year's operating costs of the huge Treasury and Post Office Departments are more than over-balanced by additional public debt requirements and the Federal building program in the annual supply bill reported today to the House.
In the biggest regular appropriation measure, $1,069,098,000 has been set aside to operate the two Departments, and $1,161,687,000 for public debt retirement, interest and other permanent outlays. These sums total nearly half of the $4,600,000,000 budget submitted by President Hoover.

The Appropriations committee cut $22,877,000 off the budget estimates for the operating expense bill, reducing this $4

"ON PLANTING A TREE"

In Memory of George Washington

Helen Carson Janssen
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22, 1930.

PLANT your branches wide against the sky.
The friendly sky, and let your roots dig deep
In Mother Earth. The kindly clouds will weep
To quench your thirst. Soft winds will sigh
And birds will hang their cradles high
Among your boughs. Tired sons of toil will sleep.
And eager youth its trust will keep.
Beneath your shade; there wrinkled age will die.

With reverent hands we plant this stalwart tree
In gratitude for him who in that past,
Forever sacred, brave against the blast
Of war and tumult, made a nation free.
Stand firm and steadfast, battling wind and hail,
The symbol of a faith that shall not fail!

Shirley Was Four Years Old Tuesday

Shirley, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClannahan, 828 N. Ottawa avenue, was four years old Tuesday, and ten little friends were entertained at her home from 2 to 4 o'clock in her honor. The home was prettily decorated in red, white and blue and the same patriotic idea was carried out in the table decorations. Balloons in these colors floated over the table while the little enjoyed the tempting birthday luncheon, and caused great glee when they were released and each youngster received one as well as another pretty favor. Shirley was the recipient of many pretty gifts with the best wishes of her little friends for future happy birthdays.

Meeting of Happy Bridge Club, Amboy

The Happy Bridge club of Amboy met Monday afternoon at the home of Doothy Hupach. Mrs. B. F. Mason of Memphis, Tenn., was an out of town guest and received the first prize; Miss Edwina Leaks, second prize; Miss Mildred Leaks, third prize; and Mrs. Ella Leaks the consolation trophy. A handkerchief shower was given for Mrs. Earl Manning who is a member of the club, but is soon to move to Freeport. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon by the hostesses.

OFFICERS R. N. A. TO ATTEND CONCERT IN BODY

The officers of the Royal Neighbors will meet in Union hall Thursday evening at 8:45 and form a party to attend the concert at the M. ## Society Honors Mrs. M. Shippert's Memory

The St. James Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Luther Burkett Thursday, Feb. 18th. The meeting opened with singing "Onward Christian Soldier." Devotions were conducted by the president. The lesson study was given by Mrs. Wiley Shippert. The regular business was then transacted and delightful refreshments were then served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Missman. A social hour completed Thursday's meeting.

The following resolutions were read and adopted by the society at this meeting in memory of our beloved departed member, Mrs. Martha Shippert, who served the society so faithfully for many years. Although it is not possible by formal resolution to express our sympathy for the death of Mrs. Martha Shippert, or our sense of loss which this community has sustained. We wish to record our appreciation of her sterling character and kindly service to all with whom she came in contact. No task was too great for her to undertake if it were for the fulfillment of her Master's kingdom. She was a ceaseless and untiring worker in the St. James missionary society, ever present in all social and religious activities whenever her health permitted. Her place will be extremely difficult to fill in the future. During her life which was spent in this vicinity, her outstanding characteristic was her love and service of her Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, but as her suffering was so great, we are glad to say, a loving mother has gone to that mansion of rest. The loss in her death has been deeply felt by all who knew her.

The foregoing are resolutions of sorrow expressed by the St. James Missionary Society.

Spring Clothes For Men Are Gay

Chicago, Feb. 24—(UP)—Post-depression togs for the snappy male dresser include step-ins with zipper attachments, pale-green hata, and wide brims, lavender ties, cream colored suits and slacks of linen and flannel for the golf course.

And that isn't all, according to A. C. Carlson, Princeton, Ill., treasurer of the Illinois Retail Clothiers' Association, in session here today. A few "freak" manufacturers plan to introduce shorts for summer street wear.

"We're sick of depression clothes," exclaimed Carlson. "The entire male population of America has been going about in standard blues and oxford grays until it has become a state of mind. This spring's clothes are going to be radical—and how!"

Suits will be light tans, grays and even greens, of tweeds and worsteds, with coats looser and less form fitting. Hats will be very light and with slightly wider brims. Colors hues of neckwear will beggar description. All this Carlson announced as official spokesman for the association.

Spanish Veterans and Aux. Celebrate

The Spanish-American War Veterans and families and their Auxiliary and their families, greatly enjoyed a picnic supper last evening in G. A. R. hall followed by a program and social hour. A bounteous supper was served.

The program included a talk by Austin Smith on George Washington; a talk by Sam Cushing on Lincoln and a talk by Dave Helmick on McKinley and a solo by Miss Dorothy Helmick. Every number on the program was excellent and well received.

Miss Ruth Lengel Happily Surprised

On Thursday evening, February 18th, eighteen high school students and a few other friends held a surprise for Miss Ruth Lengel at her home on Tenth Street. She was very much surprised, but soon made her guests welcome. Five hundred and bunco were enjoyed, with Miss Anna Mairkey and William Underwood receiving the first favors for high score, and Helen Noble and Richard Deadmond receiving the consolation prizes. Later in the evening refreshments were served. It was at a late hour when the guests left for their homes, after spending a delightful evening.

Detectives have been placed around the Hollywood home of Ann Harding, famous film actress, who in private life is Mrs. Harry Bannister, to guard her daughter, Jane, 3, with whom she is shown here, from kidnappers, following receipt of a warning that the child would be abducted. Some time ago a taxi driver reported he was shot in the leg when he refused to guide intended kidnappers to the Bannister home.

Color Dominates Spring Accessory Styles; Bright Scarfs Push Necklaces From Favor

BY DIANA MERWIN
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS —(AP)—The accessory trinkets women wear this spring will be seen instead of heard.

Last year clinking necklaces and tinkling bracelets were the order of the day. This year color (built around the simplest designs) is the most important note. Modernistic bangles and futuristic angles have all been subjugated to the tint.

Scarfs and fichus of a bright hue designed to accent the neutral tones of the frock will entirely replace necklaces in many smart costumes. A swirl of Scotch plaid or striped silk twisted about the throat is often the sole ornament worn with the dress.

Necklaces and bracelets, when worn at all, are made from extraordinary scraps. A half dozen bright colored chenille threads, bits of gaily painted wood, a circle of celluloid or a twist of kitchen cloth are the

by ALICIA HART
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Study the shape of your face and your natural coloring before you choose your rouge. Pinch your cheeks slightly to find out what your natural color really is. One shade of rouge will not do for every occasion and every costume. Consider the dress you are going to wear and the light under which you will appear.

It is best to use a cream rouge under your powder and a dry rouge on top of it. Always apply cream rouge with an upward and outward motion, and blend it by using your finger tips until there are no harsh edges. Use it sparingly on the lobes of your ears.

If you have an oval face, simply intensify your natural coloring. A face that is too broad or too full should have rouge applied high on the cheeks and shaded in toward the nose.

A too thin face can be made to look broader by placing rouge on the cheek bones and shading it away from the nose toward the ears. Always remember that rouge placed in hollows accentuates them. So, if you have hollows, rouge them a little and they'll be even more noticeable and attractive.

If you wish to make a long chin appear shorter, put your rouge very high on your cheek bones and blend it upward to the temples. High cheek bones should not be rouged. Put color below them and you detract from their prominence.

Don't use rouge on your chin. It not only makes it more prominent but lends a suggestion of a clown to your appearance.

After the cream rouge has been stuffs of which they are made. They are always chosen to accent and harmonize with the color of the frock.

The sparkling bits of paste made to imitate precious stones are gone except in clips which promise to be worn much on formal day frocks. These are made of brilliant diamonds centered with a big oblong stone imitating a ruby sapphire or emerald and are worn at some unexpected spot at the neckline.

Bags likewise reflect the color note. They are generally made of rough pebbly leather or boarded calf in a simple medium pouch design, but their colors run the gamut from brilliant reds, greens and blues to the duller shades of all these tints. Blacks, browns, beiges and grays are also shown for the conservative woman.

Colored gloves exactly matching the costume in tone are also worn, although these are never seen in brilliant tints.

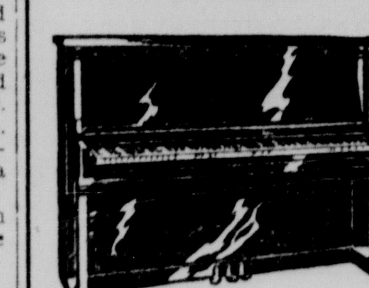

thoroughly blended on your skin, dip a clean cotton pad in your powder and gently but firmly press it on every inch of your face and neck. Now take a soft complexion brush and brush off the surplus powder before you put on dry

Never wear rouge enough to make your complexion look "made up." The object of any cosmetic is to enhance the good points of your face and detract attention from the ones which are not so attractive. Of course, you can always use more color on your face at night. Artificial lights tend to make you look whiter. But, for street and every day wear, use only enough make up of any kind to make your skin look healthy and naturally lovely.

Karin Nissvandt to Wed Prince Lennart

London, Feb. 24 —(AP)—Karin Nissvandt, pretty daughter of a Stockholm business man, who fell in love with His Royal Highness Prince Lennart of Sweden, was in London today with the Prince for their wedding, a bit lonely and shy as a result of running counter to the will of the King.

After their marriage, which will not take place for two or three weeks, the pretty blonde Karin will not be a Princess, for her fiancé is renouncing all rights to his title and will become plain Mr. Bernadotte after the wedding.

They looked like an ordinary college boy and his co-ed best girl as they stepped, somewhat abashed, from the train at Victoria Station last night into a strange city neither had ever seen and where no one came to meet them except two hotel employees.

There were no representatives from Swedish embassies, for the young man's grand father, King Gustav of Sweden, and his father, Prince Wilhelm, have disapproved of the marriage. For this reason the ceremony could not be performed in Sweden and the couple came here accompanied by two aunts and an uncle of the girl.

HOLMES AND CARDOZO.

A good many years ago Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes delivered an address to Harvard College students, in which he told them:

"No man has earned the right to intellectual ambition until he has learned to lay his course by a star which he has never seen—to dig by the divining rod for springs which he may never reach."

That sentence, somehow, takes on a new significance when the recent change in the supreme court of the United States is considered.

Justice Holmes, stepping down, is replaced by Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, a worthy successor in every way; and the careers of these two men prove conclusively that it is still possible for a man to follow this other-worldly, impractical advice which Justice Holmes gave the college men a generation ago and still win a high place in public life.

Ordinarily we look on public office as something that has to be bought with more or less base metal. The man who would fill it must compromise with expediency, he must give up the privilege of always saying what he thinks, he must occasionally fail to let his right hand know what his left hand is doing. Politics, we are fond of saying, is a dirty game.

Perhaps we are right, in a good many cases. But we aren't always right. These two men, one leaving a high place, the other mounting to it, show us how completely our easy assumption can be wrong.

To lay a course by a star which he has never seen—what does that mean, if not that the leader of men must trust to a nobility and a divinity that are not always evident in the workaday world, must be ready to let his fellows deride him as a visionary, must be unceasingly faithful in sticking to the truth as he has seen it?

A tough job for a man who would rise in public office? Very likely; yet few men ever retired from the supreme court to the acclaim that greeted Justice Holmes' retirement, and few men ever ascended to it as widely endorsed as is Justice Cardozo. And these two, throughout their careers, have lived up to that motto unceasingly.

The nation is always ready to put men of that kind in high places. The only trouble is that it can find so few of them.

A TRIBUTE TO THE JOBLESS.

One of the most striking features of the present depression has been the relative absence of violence on the part of unemployed workmen. Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, touched on the point in a speech at Williamstown, Mass., the other day, and remarked:

"This depression has produced less mass demonstration, I believe, because of the recoil and actual fear of violence among the workers and the fear that such demonstrations would tie them up with the Communist theory of inevitable revolution."

That, apparently, is about the size of it; and there could not be a surer tribute to the solidity and intelligence of the America wage-earner. The American worker has not the slightest desire for a revolution. He simply wants a job, and if he has to wait a long time for it he can wait without breaking things.

A WISE MEASURE.

Representative Hamilton Fish of New York has not always appeared before the public as the sponsor of wise and enlightened legislation. But the resolution he introduced recently to prohibit exportation of arms or munitions from the United States to any nation engaged in war looks like the sort of bill behind which liberals and peace-lovers might well unite.

Of course, this would be costly to the munitions-makers, in case of a large-scale war anywhere on the globe. But it ought to be an excellent thing for the nation as a whole.

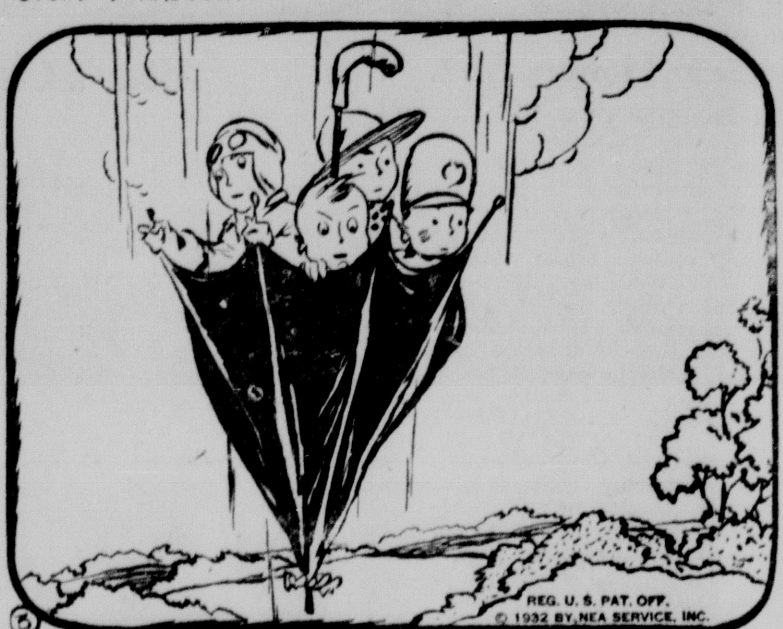

Acting as purveyor or arms to a nation in war-time can be a very good way of getting directly embroiled in the conflict—especially so since circumstances usually are such that you can't sell to both of the combatants. Representative Fish's resolution ought to be adopted.

I think that if the bootleggers are profiting to the extent of a billion and a half dollars yearly, or any other sum, it is the obvious duty of the government to take the entire amount through taxation.—William Gibbs McAdoo.

The Hawes-Cutting bill (for Philippine independence) attempts to tear down in five years all we have built up in 20.—Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War.

We'll wipe out this bandit menace if we have to follow them to London.—Major General Miyake, Japanese Staff Officer in Manchuria.

People talk of the next war. Well, the next war is here.—Dr. John Haynes Holmes, New York Minister.

Up, up, the happy Tinxmites rose and Scouty shouted, "Goodness knows, this is a very funny ride. I wonder where we'll land. The big umbrella sails along. I hope that nothing will go wrong. I think it best we all sit down. It isn't safe to stand."

"Course Old Man Blow was right nearly. Said he, 'You'll shortly reach the sky if I decide to send you there. I'm powerful as can be. But I will merely puff, puff, puff, just so the going won't be rough. Just have a good time, little lads. You can depend on me.'"

And then they reached a great big cloud. This rather scared the Tinxmites because they sailed right into it and it seemed rather dark. Wee Duncy shouted, "Hey!" And then they promptly sailed right out again. "We're safe and sound," another cried. "Gee, this is quite a lark."

The big umbrella tipped a bit and Copy said, "How can we sit real quiet if it does like that? It's hard to hold on tight. Suppose we'd tumble to the ground. Let's all hold hands and not move round. I guess with Old Man Blow nearby, we're bound to be all right."

Then Duncy said, "What is this thing?" He'd found a funny little spring within the big umbrella. Scouty looked at it and cried, "Don't push it, Duncy. Mercy, no! Or, sure enough, right down we'll go. It closes the umbrella up. That's why it's put inside."

But Duncy was a crazy lad. He pushed the spring and 'twas too bad. The big umbrella closed up with a swish sort of sound. Then down they started, very fast. "I knew our fine trip wouldn't last," cried Copy. "We're in danger, 'cause we're heading for the ground."

Christ says to us who are capable of action that no matter how weary we are we must use our last remaining bit of strength in taking steps toward Him. Christ goes the full distance in seeking and saving those who can not move toward Him; but in so far as we are able to go, He requires us to do so. Thus we are saved from becoming religious paupers. So long, therefore, as we have any strength at all, we must take up

Christ's yoke and go after Him.

Prayer:

O Master who dost summon us in our weariness, and who callest us to walk with Thee even when our feet are tired, may Thy Spirit so empower our wills that we may be strong to obey Thy call. Help us to take Thy yoke upon us and to learn of Thee, that as we enter Thy service

we may know that Thy yoke is easy and Thy burden is light. Amen.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

U. S. ARTILLERY IN ACTION

On Feb. 24, 1918, American artillery silenced a German battery in the Toul sector of the western front in one of the fiercest artillery duels of the month.

The German auxiliary cruiser

Wolf returned to Kiel on that date

after sinking 11 Allied vessels during a 15-months cruise as a raider in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans.

At the same time, the Spanish ship Igoiz-Mendi, with a German prize crew aboard, was driven ashore in Denmark and interned by the Danish government. Two Americans were included in the 22 prisoners aboard.

The Russian government announced its complete acceptance of German peace terms, although Leon

Trotsky threatened to resign his post as foreign minister because of the drastic terms.

Fighting on the Italian and western fronts was confined principally to artillery fire and local trench raids.

Daily Health Talk

SLEEP

The most important business of the infant is to learn how to sleep, eat and exercise.

During the early months of its life the infant does hardly anything else, for nursing, sleeping and avoiding are functions deeply rooted in its native nervous and functioning machinery.

As the infant grows older it becomes aware of other pleasures in life, of light and warmth, of the pleasures in being caressed, of play, and varied enjoyments.

The attraction of these other gratifying experiences may seriously interfere with the child's performance of essential functions.

Not the least important of these

College Girls "Mind Their Knitting"—for Jobless

is sleep. The failure to acquire proper sleeping habits, and disturbances in the sleep function, are prone to play havoc with the child.

The new born child sleeps virtually all the time. At six months of age, 15 hours of sleep daily is a fair average. From one to four years of age 10 hours' sleep is required. Subsequently 9 hours is the rule.

Any marked deviation from this schedule calls for study of the case, particularly if sleep is broken, the child waking after a few hours of sleep, and remaining awake.

In such cases one should first consider the possibility of the child's being awakened by pain and disturbances in its body functions. The pain needs not to be acute enough to cause the child to cry, in order to make sleep impossible.

Gastric disturbances, nausea, the frequent need to urinate, and excessive fatigue may disturb its sleep.

Bad sleeping conditions such as an uncomfortable bed, improper ventilation, excessive or inadequate covering, bright lights, or street noises may interfere with normal sleep.

But a good many of the cases of disturbed sleep in children are due to the lack of proper training. This will be dealt with in a subsequent article.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

BY UNITED PRESS

Washington, Feb. 24—(UP)—The shuffle of Treasury officials brought about by the retirement of Andrew W. Mellon has made the Treasury a Harvard Institution. Secretary Mills, Undersecretary Ballantine and James Henderson Douglas, Jr., named as Assistant Secretary last week, all come from the family of old John Harvard. Only Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board represents any other school in the control of finance. He numbers California and Yale as sources of his education.

The State Department is just as firmly in the hands of Yale, and someone already has suggested an interdepartmental football game.

Douglas, the new Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, only attended Harvard for a year, however, Princeton gave him his degree. He was of the 1920 class at Princeton and now is only 33 years old. He shares with David Sinton Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the distinction of being the youngest Assistant Secretary.

Douglas comes from Chicago, where his office with the investment banking firm of Field, Gore & Company is a pleasant place to visit. A charming Secretary conducts one straight to Douglas without any preliminary cooling of heels. He greets the visitor with a smile.

He stands five feet 11 inches tall, weighs 180 pounds, and his blue eyes twinkle. Calm in manner, he gives the impression of a man who concentrates on his problems. Among his friends he is known for an even temper and a pulse which seems never to leave him.

Douglas reads much and is fond of music. He is the kind of music lover who doesn't subscribe for the season. He buys tickets for the performances at the Chicago Opera that he likes and lets the others go along without him.

He never has been in politics. He lives on Chicago's Gold Coast and is pretty proud of James Henderson Douglas, 3d, his only child. His wife formerly was Grace Farwell McGann, a Lake Forest society girl. The new Treasury official's father was a director of the Quaker Oats Company. A brother, Donald, now is a director of the same concern.

Douglas always has been a fellow who has done things. A look back at his school record shows that in high school he was active in journalism and was a member of the golf and tennis teams. At Princeton he was editorial chairman of the Daily Princetonian, the campus newspaper; was president of the International Polity Club; a member of the Student Council; a member of the Princeton Speaker's Association; was on the golf team for three years; was on the swimming team. In the World War he was a Second Lieutenant in a machine gun company.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

TEXT—John 11:32-44

By WILLIAM E. GILROY D. D.

What I have said formerly in this column concerning miracles applies with even greater force to this miracle of the raising of Lazarus from the dead. If we could explain it, it would not be a miracle.

In the presence of the miraculous there will always be those who find it easy to believe and those for whom belief is difficult. Discussion of belief and unbelief in relation to such matters can help very little.

Fortunately the miracles recorded in the New Testament take us very quickly beyond the miracle to the spiritual truth and the wonder-working power of the new life in Jesus.

If these miracles were simply and only stories of magic, we should have little reason to dwell upon them for the enrichment of our religious lives. It is the fact that they are associated with the life and teachings of Jesus that gives them significance.

The power of Jesus to give new life to dead bodies would be little if we had no faith in his power to bring life to dead souls.

Our own age reveals strange and intense contrasts in the reaction of various minds to the miracles.

Apart from the two extremes of those who take the literal and traditional view and the so-called "modernists" who believe that the realities of Christian faith and teaching do not depend upon the literal acceptance of the stories of miracles, we find two attitudes or temperaments.

There are those whose attitude might be called that of material science, who see everything in the world operating within the realm of law, and of laws, the effects of which can be measured and stated in material terms.

But we see, also, intelligent men and women who believe that the laws of the universe are not confined to material effects that can be measured. They believe that we are in a world of spirit, and that phenomena quite as remarkable as the miracles described in the New Testament are happening in the world today.

The conflict between these two attitudes and temperaments is exceedingly keen, but it cannot be said that the eminent and the intelligent are wholly upon one side.

Such men as the late Conan Doyle, and Sir Oliver Lodge, have had implicit faith in spiritual powers and forces that operate in quite as remarkable ways as the raising of Lazarus from the dead.

Moderate men who take into account both sides of such issues may feel that these questions are by no means settled. It may be that we are on the eve of revelations and discoveries in relation to the spiritual universe which will change our ideas as much as they have

Salt Held Most Essential Of All Minerals In World

Washington, D. C. — Oklahoma's vast salt desert, 40,000 acres of barren plain near Cherokee, in the north-central part of the State, will soon be transformed into a salt lake, one of the Federal Government's proposed 115 artificial lakes as migratory wild fowl refuges.

Only the Great Salt Lake in Utah and the Salton Sea in southern California, among American salt lakes, will exceed this new body of water in size.

Enough for Two Million Years "Salt is so plentiful and cheap in America that we lose sight of the value placed upon it in primitive countries," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"We think nothing of covering some forty square miles of salt beds when Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico are underlaid with deposits estimated to contain thirty thousand billion tons. Salt from this region could supply our needs for at least two million years at the present rate of consumption. The United States could provide the

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

world with salt almost indefinitely.

"Of the 8,000,000 tons of salt produced annually in the United States more than 2,350,000 tons are manufactured salt; nearly 2,000,000 tons are rock salt, and 3,800,000 tons are brine salt. The 1931 value of America's salt was more than $25,000,000. Michigan, New York, Ohio, Kansas and Louisiana are the leading salt producing states, in the order named.

"The New York deposits have been worked for a century, yet a sufficient supply remains to meet our demand for another thousand years. In some places the deposit is more than 300 feet thick.

Luxury in Central Africa

"Among the native tribes of Central Africa, salt is a luxury. By gifts of salt, the white man has been able to approach and study the most timid African jungle dwellers. In the Belgian Congo the Pygmies bury elephant tusks until they can trade them for salt and tobacco.

For centuries before the Christian era, blocks of salt were used by districts bordering the ocean to pay taxes to Chinese rulers. Today in Tibet and parts of China salt is a medium of exchange. The ancient Germans believed the presence of salt in soil gave it a sacred character and would wage war for salty streams.

"While some salt is taken from sea water by evaporation, most of our supply is extracted from earth deposits. This is done by forcing water down holes reaching the salt bed and evaporating the brine which is forced up, or by mining the mineral in much the same manner as coal is mined.

Underground Salt City

"The famous salt mines at Wieliczka, Galicia, have been called one of the lesser wonders of the world. They form an underground city with 65 miles of galleries and 30 miles of railroads. Monuments, houses, churches, restaurants, and railroad stations, as well as huge artistically patterned chandeliers in numerous chapels and ballrooms are all carved out of solid salt.

"Each person uses from 16 to 18 pounds of salt annually. Every living thing would perish without the mineral. Salt supplies the tissues of the human body with iodine.

"Although salt is used principally for cooking and seasoning it is also used extensively in meat packing, dairying, baking, refrigeration, pottery glazing, in enamel and pipe works, in the silk and textile industries, in salting cattle, curing and tanning hides, making pickles and in the manufacture of numerous chemicals containing a sodium base."

DIXON TO WIND UP CONFERENCE PLAY THIS WEEK

Cagers Meet Belvidere And DeKalb In The Final Contests

BY DON HILLIKER

Two games this week end with conference foes engage the Dixon high school basketball squad. Friday night in Belvidere with the league leaders and Saturday night at home against DeKalb.

Although given only an outside chance to win over Belvidere, Dixon might surprise with its third win of the year. Last week Belvidere was Rockford high school's first victim after 12 straight losses. On last Saturday, Belvidere barely beat Durand. Based on these losses the underdog may again turn the tables on the big Boone team.

Belvidere trimmed Dixon earlier in the season to register its fifth win in the three years of competition for the North Central conference.

The Saturday night games on the local court are the final games of the season for Dixon teams on their floor. Dixon stands a good chance of dusting off the DeKalb quintet. The game in DeKalb resulted in a victory over Dixon but only by a 12 to 9 count. The visiting team is another conference member who has the margin over Dixon the past three years. In five games played Dixon has won but one.

At the Saturday night program the Dixon Municipal band will make an appearance. After the two games this week, Sterling is met on the Coliseum floor in Sterling on March 4. The following Wednesday Dixon plays Sterling in the district tournament contest.

Baseball Gossip

New York, Feb. 24—(AP)—In their campaign for a "farm system" to rival that maintained by the St. Louis Cardinals, the New York Yankees have taken over the Springfield club of the eastern league. The Yankees now own outright or have an interest in four minor league outfits of varying classification.

Heading the Yankees' minor league holdings is the class double-A Newark club of the International League. Springfield, purchase of which was announced last night, is a class A team. These are the only clubs the Yankees own outright but they have interests in the class B Scranton team of the New York Pennsylvania League as well as Cumberland of the Middle-Atlantic circuit, a class C organization.

H. Eugene McCann, former manager of the Springfield club and a later scout with the Yankees, has been named president of the company which will operate the club with George M. Weiss, recently appointed farm manager by the Yankees, serving as vice-president. A manager is to be named within a few days.

Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 24—(AP)—With representatives of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League hanging around them to grab them if they don't make good, the young Cubs are breaking their necks to impress Rogers Hornsby.

Those the Cubs can't use go to the Angels, who are hot after new material. Today's workday were expected to be somewhat lighter, following yesterday's session in the base-sliding pit which cost the athletes considerable hide.

Fort Myers, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—The pitching staff was the big "X" of Connie Mack's baseball algebra today.

Speculation over Waite Hoyt's chances of rejoining the Athletics mingled with conjectures as to the outcome of the demands for more money made by Lefty Grove and Rube Walberg.

Hoyt drove down from St. Petersburg, the Yankees' training base, clouded a couple of baseballs into the Palmettus back of Terry Park, held a conference with Connie and then drove off again.

Grove and Walberg continued to play golf today.

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 24—(AP)—With on casualties in the opening days of practice, the ball-playing Senators from Washington begin to look pretty good to Manager Walter Johnson.

Trimmer waist lines particularly have provided surprises by some of the boys on the pitching staff who in former seasons were sources of worry in this respect.

From this same division, however, worry for President Clark Griffith persisted today with Bobby Burke maintaining his self-assumed status of "hold-out." The news has trickled down from headquarters, however, that the recalcitrant pitcher has had his last offer. Prospects of just the opposite to the demanded salary boost are in store for Bobby if he does not put in an appearance soon. He was ordered to report day before yesterday.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Dazzy Vance, right handed pitching ace of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is willing to take a 25 per cent cut in salary but not more.

"As far as I can see," Dazzy says, "the club officials are trying to put me in a false position. They wish to create the impression that I will not sign except for an exorbitant salary and then they will be free to trade me without any consentment on the part of the public. I simply will not take a 50 per cent cut. I still am willing to meet them half way and accept a 25 per cent reduction."

Richardson Springs, Cay., Feb. 24—(AP)—Dale Alexander, big first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, is married now and takes his job seriously as he believes all married men should. He also has heard rumors that the Tigers are dicker for Joe Judge, Washington first baseman.

So he is taking special treatments from Trainer Denny Carroll for an old elbow injury which he blames for his batting slump last year.

Los Angeles, Feb. 24—(AP)—John McGraw was in town only a few minutes before he started talking about the 1932 New York Giants. "The Cardinals are the team to beat," he said, "but the Cubs will be tough. I think we should have a good team. If Clitz's arm is all right he'll be the second baseman. If not, I'll work Lindstrom at second. If this Koenecke we got from Indianapolis is as good as I think he is he'll play left field."

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Loss of Henry Johnson via an operation for appendicitis, has revived reports that the New York Yankees will trade Tony Lazzeri, veteran second-baseman.

Johnson probably will do no pitching until late May or early June and that means Manager Joe McCarthy will have to find another starting right-hander. The chances are he will have to go into the trading marts to land a first string pitcher, perhaps using Lazzeri as the chief bait.

If Marvin "Lefty" Gudat, whom the Chicago Cubs picked up in the draft from Columbus of the American Association, doesn't win a place on the team through pitching, his hitting may turn the trick.

Gudat had a trial with the Cincinnati Reds in 1930, winning one game and losing one. His pitching average remained at 500 with Columbus in eight decisions last year but he compiled a 345 batting average. He played at first base and in the outfield besides pitching.

Gudat is 27 years old, five feet 11 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds.

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—"Dizzy" Dean says he is not going to try so hard this year to live up to his nickname. Although he is as talkative as ever since joining the Cardinals' battery forces for spring training, Dean says he's going to take the game more seriously this season.

With the arrival of Dean, Big Jess Haines, "Tex" Carleton and Leo Dixon, and the signing up of Flint Rhem after he had said yesterday he "hadn't quite made up his mind," Manager Gabby Street had on hand most of the 1932 standbys for spring training.

Ada, Okla., Feb. 24—(AP)—His contract signed, Lloyd "Little Poison" Warner left his winter home here last night for the Pittsburgh Pirate training camp at Paso Robles, Calif. He said his contract terms were "satisfactory."

New York, Feb. 24—(UP)—Not since King Lear turned Cordelia out into the cold has anything so distressed and shocked us as the news from Fort Myers, Florida, that Connie Mack had angrily refused to grant Lefty Grove and Rube Walberg increases in salary.

Can it be that father Connie Mack is fatherly no longer? Do you suppose the failure of his boys to tame the wild Mister Martin and the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1931 World Series chilled father Mack's paternal instincts and that in the future he will have no more fatherly interest in his men than John McGraw says, has in the New York Giants. And McGraw, you know, has about as much affection for "them Gias's" as a buck salmon has for its young, which is exactly zero, or none.

Let us hope and pray the dispatches from Fort Myers were erroneous. For if they were not, baseball has lost its last sweet picture—a genuine family fesside and hearthstone group. What a happy, happy family the Athletics have been through the years. And what a heartwarming picture the team made when, after a tough tussle with the Boston Red Sox, say, the boys gathered at Connie's home. I can see them now:

Big Jimmy Foxx curled up in a corner making a steam shovel with his erector set. Mickey Cochrane—big, happy Mickey—reading his new "American Boy" aloud to Mule Haus. And over in front of the roaring fire, father Connie, with a look of deep satisfaction on his kindly face, reading Peter Rabbit and Mother Goose to wide-eyed, tousled-haired Bing Miller, and shy little Lefty Grove.

Let us not be too hasty, however, in condemning father Connie for threatening this beautiful circle of love and good cheer. There is a chance and a good one, too, that father Connie has discovered that instead of loving offspring, he had a group of changelings under his wing, Changelings who will do and die for dead old dad—provided the money's all right.

So until we find out just who is at fault let us all stand and say: a boo for father Connie in refusing the raise and a boo for Rube and Lefty for bothering "papa" in these trying times.

If both father Connie and the two southpaws continued their display of stubbornness throughout the season it would do more to wreck a sweet family picture—it would knock the Athletics' chances for the American League pennant right out of the back window. Lefty and Rube between them won 51 games last year, just five less than half of all the victories scored by the A's. Take them out of the line-up and the champions would run for Mrs. Sweeney at a very brisk pace. A very brisk pace, indeed.

Who said all southpaws were crazy? Lefty and Rube are asking for more money, aren't they?

Stribling will take Schaaf.

Crowley To Decide On Iowa Offer Soon

Iowa City, Feb. 24—(AP)—The possibility of James Crowley of Michigan State becoming head football coach at the University of Iowa was much brighter today.

Crowley announced at East Lansing, Mich. last night that he had conferred with Dr. E. H. Lauer, University of Iowa Athletic Director, and another member of the athletic board, in Chicago and had been told he is the man desired for the position left vacant by the resignation of Coach Burton A. Ingwersen.

He refused to discuss terms of the contract offered him but it is understood the Iowa representative tendered a substantial salary increase.

He declared he would give his answer "in a couple of days."

Wine Was An Easy One For Dempsey

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 24—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, went to Frankfort today to receive a Kentucky Colonel commission from Governor Ruby Laffoon after adding Frankie Wine to his list of comeback tour victims.

In a bout that began slowly but gained momentum, Dempsey easily outpointed the Butte, Mont., blacksmith, who saved himself from a knockout by clinching in the fourth and final round of their exhibition bout here last night. Dempsey weighed 194, Wine 191.

Dempsey apparently was taking it easy after losing the only fight of his tour to King Levinsky at Chicago Thursday. Wine offered little opposition except in the second round when he landed a few little jabs.

Most of the time he kept his chin covered to save himself from being handed the first knockout of his career.

Available estimates placed the crowd that jammed the Jefferson county armory at 15,000. The promoters said the gate receipts just fell short of Louisville's record of $18,000.

Dempsey's loss to Levinsky failed to affect the attendance as the house was a complete sell-out. Hundreds of prospective cash customers were turned away just before the bout.

After going to Frankfort today to address the Kentucky legislature and receive his Colonel commission, Dempsey will go to Chicago. The next exhibition on his tour is at Dayton, Ohio, Monday night.

ILLINOIS STATE FAIR BOARD TO MEET TOMORROW

Will Make Plans For the Annual Exposition August 20-27

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24—(UP)—Plans for the 1932 State Fair, August 20 to 27, will be discussed at a meeting of the Illinois State Fair Advisory Board and officials of the exposition, here tomorrow in the offices of Stuart E. Pierson, Director of the state Department of Agriculture.

Work to be considered at the meeting will consist mostly of discussing plans, assigning of various departments to members of the board and tentative selection of superintendents judges and other departmental officials and employees. Revisions of the premium list and regulations also will be considered, it was said.

Unusual interest is anticipated in the two political rally days at the fair in view of this being the quadrennial campaign year. According to present plans Republicans will gather on Thursday, August 25, while the Democrats will have Friday, August 26, reserved for their meeting.

The 1932 fair dates coincide almost exactly with both the Grand Circuit racing schedule and with that of the major livestock exhibitions of North America and indicates in the minds of fair officials that the Illinois Exposition this year will again have an abundance of entries in the speed contests and in livestock expositions.

Officials of the National Swine Show and of related agencies have been in touch with state officials and are forming preliminary plans for the second presentation of the country's leading hog exposition in connection with the fair. It is considered probable that some of the National Swine Breeders' Association leaders will attend tomorrow's meeting.

The fair advisory board consists of Homer J. Tice, Greenville; Maj. or John MacQueen, Kirkland; Leslie P. Volz, Chicago; Tels P. Smith, Danville; J. E. Taggart, Freeport; Milton M. Brown, Springfield; Walter Alexander, Bloomington; William Hayes, Duquoin; and Mrs. W. H. Stuart, Chicago.

Hoppe Finding It Hard To Come Back

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, former world balking billiards champion, is finding it hard to comeback after a two-year lay-off.

Hoppe today was in last place in a special three-cushion tournament, having failed to win a match in three starts. Augie Kleckhefer of Chicago, world angle titleholder; Arthur Turnblad of Chicago, former champion, and Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., were tied for the lead with two victories and one defeat each, as the tournament went into its third day.

Kleckhefer was scheduled to meet Hoppe and Cochran today, and Bozeman was matched with Cochran and Turnblad.

Dr. Clarence Wilson Faces Arrest In West

Portland, Ore., Feb. 24—(AP)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, General Secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, was charged with reckless driving in a warrant issued by Deputy City Attorney James A. Bain, upon complaint of L. E. Welch of Portland.

The warrant alleged an automobile driven by Dr. Wilson here last Sunday morning collided with one driven by Welch and that Dr. Wilson was driving at an excessive rate of speed before the accident and failed to stop within a block.

Police said Dr. Wilson failed to report the accident as required by law.

BRITISH TARIFF BILL EXPLAINED BY CHAN. NEVILLE

Provisions Outlined to House Of Commons By Its Sponsor

London, Feb. 24—(UP)—Increased prices will be guaranteed growers for home grown wheat which British millers must buy, the text of the government wheat bill revealed today.

The payments will be guaranteed on a maximum of 27,000,000 hundred weight any cereal year starting with 1932.

A standard price of 10 shillings (about $1.73 at current exchange and $2.50 at par) per hundredweight will be guaranteed.

The wheat bill established the quota of home grown wheat which British millers must buy at a maximum of 19.6 per cent of consumption based on the 1931 British wheat consumption of 139,000,000 hundred-weights.

It was planned originally to establish the quota of home grown wheat at about 15 per cent and a wheat commission created by the bill was expected to work out a scheme to keep the quota around the original figure.

The government guaranteed to reimburse the growers for the difference between the average market price and the standard price by deficiency payments. Funds for these payments will be obtained by proportionate payments from millers and importers on flour delivered in the United Kingdom.

The bill created a Wheat Commission charged with administration of the scheme, and a flour millers' corporation to discharge any obligations imposed on millers with respect to unsold stocks of wheat.

The government proposes to put coal, coke, and bricketts on the tariff free list due to provisions in the United States for countervailing duties if these articles are taxed. Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain said in the House of Commons.

Chamberlain also said potash, raw copper, all metallic ores, all animal hair, esparto grass, pearls, semiprecious stones, and platinum would be put on the free list.

Maize will be on the free list, but "will be subject to consideration at any future time and to any recommendations of the tariff advisory committee," the Chancellor said. He opposed an amendment rejected by the House making meat subject to the 10 per cent general tariff duty, but added that he could not pledge the government never to tax meat.

Chamberlain said the tax was unwise at present due to the cost of living.

Schaaf Is Favored To Trim Stribling

Chicago, Feb. 24—(UP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, was quoted as 7-5 favorite today over W. L. (Young) Stribling of Georgia for their 10-round bout in the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Schaaf has won 13 consecutive bouts, 10 by knockouts. Stribling has won his last four starts, three by knockouts, since he lost to Max Schmeling at Cleveland last July.

Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Mickey Walker and Tuffy Griffiths, ranked among the first ten heavyweights, will be ringside spectators.

Included in the German postoffice department are the government-owned telephone, telegraph, radio and postal bank service.

Arlington May Have Grass Track For Vets

Chicago, Feb. 24—(AP)—Older horses racing at Arlington Park next summer may have a nice turf course on which to gallop.

Steeplechase races have been omitted from the Arlington program for next season, and Christopher J. Fitzgerald, presiding steward, has suggested that a mile and a sixteenth turf course be laid out in the infield, for older horses.

Fitzgerald pointed out that the grass track, and the directors have veteran campaigners run better on taken the suggestion under consideration.

HOW WHITE PRINCESS OF BORNEO WILD MEN JOINED MOHAMMEDAN FAITH BY PLANE

Third Religion of English Beauty

By NEA Service
Born to the High Church Protestantism of her wealthy British ancestry and recently converted to the Catholic church, the Princess Muda of Sarawak, heiress to one of London's great fortunes, soon will return to her muggy kingdom in Borneo as a Bride of Islam.

This latest religious exploit of the eccentric daughter of Sir Walter Palmer was performed before the startled passengers of a London to Paris airplane during a recent trip home.

Taking off from London a Christian, she made her ceremonious bow to Allah while whizzing high over the English channel and landed in Paris a Mohammedan and fair custodian of the $2,000,000 sacred tunic worn by the Prophet 1300 years ago.

Now, over the tenebris of Mayfair and the Champs Elysee, is whispered:

"Our Princess of the Headhunters at last has gone native!"

Romance led her to Borneo as the bride of Major Bertram W. Brooke, Tuan Muda or Crown Prince of the Dyak kingdom and heir apparent to the throne of Sarawak.

The reigning monarch, only white rajah in the world, is Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, brother of Princess Muda's husband. As the rajah and his English bride, the former Hon. Sylvia Brett, have three daughters and no sons, indications are that the Tuan Muda and his beautiful princess ultimately will succeed to the throne and power of life and death over 500,000 natives.

Bequeathed the Palmer share of the Huntley and Palmer biscuit fortune, estimated at $1,250,000, the present crown princess was led by romance to the pestilential domain of her husband. From girlhood she had been the fashionable set she left behind her.

Now, having become convert to three great religions of the world, she will return to a new ascendancy over the Sarawak natives, who themselves practice a semi-barbaric version of the teachings of Mohamet.

The ceremony that made her a Bride of Islam was performed by Dr. Khalid Sheldrake, president of the Western Islamic Association, in the fore-cabin of the 20-passenger plane while they raced through the sky at 100 miles an hour.

"I choose the plane as my mosque," the princess said on landing, "so that I would not be in contact with any earthly thing."

While the channel sparkled 5000 feet below, the princess, right hand clasped by Dr. Sheldrake, repeated after him the sacred words of the Koran.

"I bear witness that nothing deserves to be worshipped but Allah, Allah. And I bear witness that Mohamet is the apostle of Allah, Allah."

Dr. Sheldrake, who wore a fez as the sole mark of his Islamic authority, bowed his head over the smartly garbed figure of his convert.

The Mayfair friends of Princess Muda of Sarawak, were startled when the English heiress became a Mohammedan during a dramatic airplane ceremony high over the English channel as shown in sketch although this was her third conversion to the three great religions of the world. She is the sister-in-law of the Ranees of Sarawak, shown at left in Malay garb, and the present rajah, also shown. At the right is the Ranees, a former society favorite, with her three daughters. Because there is no male issue, Princess Muda and her husband will succeed to the throne.

Both the rajah and Tuan Muda were born in England and educated at Oxford. Both are clean-limbed British gentlemen, favorites in society when they are at home all-powerful in their Malaysian realm.

Rajah Brooke's wife, the Hon. Sylvia, is the daughter of Viscount Escher, and also is an heiress and society belle. She has written several plays.

Both the Rajah and his brother maintain homes in England, but both families spend most of their time in the fastnesses of Sarawak.

Princess Muda frequently has displayed the eccentric talents which have led her at last to the sisterhood of Islam. Quitting her father's church, she became an ardent Christian Scientist during her debutant days.

In 1920 she embraced the Catholic faith and once was granted a special audience by the Pope at whose request she appeared in Malay dress.

In Sarawak the Princess Muda find a land of opium smugglers, Dyaks, Malay traders, scorpions and gigantic reptiles.

Boa constrictors thrive in the equatorial climate. Comforts are few. Rooms are barren so that poisonous insects may not creep unseen.

The Ranees Sylvia and Princess Muda bathe in flag-stoned enclosures where humble serving women douse them with tepid water from pails.

They rule under the most complete autocracy in existence.

POET'S CORNER

COLONEL WASHINGTON'S CHARGE

To the drummer's call, like a flaming wall,
Our foe's line is forming;
And the plunging corse and riderless horse
Respond to their cannon's storming.

Waving and bright, like forest of light,
Their masses of bayonets thicken;
And battle-clouds, like heroic shrouds,
Bear aloft the souls of the stricken.

Our regiments reel 'neath the veteran steel
Of that phalanx, steady and serried;
And wit horse—trampling feet the confused retreat
Storms by us bloody and hurried.

But the bugles blare through the thickening air,
And our thunder-charge sweeps onward
O'er a flame-lit path, like the demon-wrath
Of Etna bursting upward.

Through crimson blanks in those alien ranks
Breaks the stormy light of our sabres,
And the death-struck rows of liberty's foes
Are the harvest of our labors.

Like a scythe of fire, on their red retire
We hang, till the streams are swollen
With glory tides, and the couriers' strides
Plunge wearily over the fallen.

MANCHU WAR GODS GRIN IN "ANKUO"

Orient's Bloody Treasure-Land Makes Bow as Republic

Henry Pu Yi, the former Manchu Emperor Hsuan Tung, who was spirited out of Tientsin at the beginning of the Sino-Japanese trouble, is generally looked on as the leading candidate for lifetime dictator of his native land. He is the last of the line of Manchu rulers.

The United States government has indicated it will not recognize Ankuo because it was formed under aggression.

Mixing homely quips and biting sarcasm, the Governor, garbed in a travel-wrinkled, rusty, black suit, warned his listeners the nation was following the pathway that led to the downfall of ancient empires.

He scattered a trail of ashes from his nickel cigars about the state as he rushed from meeting to meeting, unmindful of appearances and heedless of the strains of sleeper jumps that showed in his care-lined face.

Rust is estimated to cost the world more than five billion dollars a year.

SMITH TO LEAD OWN FORCES AT BIG CONVENTION

His Friends Do Not Think Happy Warrior Wants Nomination Himself

(Editor's Note: Raymond Clapper, Washington manager of the United Press, is making a trip on which he will present more of his important political reports. He has seen former Governor Alfred E. Smith in New York, and presents herewith an exclusive story concerning Smith's position, coupled with important close up information on Smith's position toward the Democratic presidential nomination fight. This article casts much light on the perplexing question—where does Smith stand, and why.)

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press)
New York, Feb. 24.—(UP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith revealed in conversation with the United Press today that he intends to go to the Democratic national convention at Chicago in June.

There, this man who is casting a rapidly growing shadow along the Democratic path will be in position to take personal leadership of his forces now organizing to prevent nomination of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

fight between these two popular sons of New York State. They have been political friends and allies for years, but now, they face each other in a struggle that may become historic.

Smith is putting on again his war paint.

To Make Announcement He is about to make an important political utterance on prohibition, the first since he recently announced he was "willing" to make the fight if the Democratic convention so desired. He is preparing to speak for the Raskob home-rule plan to return liquor control to the states, before the National Democratic Club here Saturday.

There is an ominous silence in Smith's 32nd floor office of the Empire State Building. I was the first newspaper correspondent he had received since he announced his willingness to be a candidate more than two weeks ago. He refuses under any circumstances to elaborate that announcement.

Smith in 1928 stayed in Albany instead of attending the Houston convention where he was nominated on the first ballot. His decision to attend the Chicago convention was taken as indicating he foresees a hard fight both over the candidate and over prohibition and wishes to be on hand to lead his forces personally.

Attitude Mysterious Smith's attitude toward Roosevelt is one of the most mysterious chapters in Democratic politics. He did not discuss it with me. What I report on this subject was gathered entirely from some of his close friends.

They believe Smith regards Roosevelt as an unwise presidential choice. One of them told me that in numerous conversations he had never heard Smith utter an unkind word about Roosevelt and that he bears no personal ill-will toward the man who placed him in nomination before two national conventions and who gave him the title of "The Happy Warrior."

The explanation advanced by most of Smith's friends is that he does not regard Roosevelt as the strongest man the party could name. They do not believe Smith himself expects to be nominated.

Some expect him, at the proper time, to forewear all claim and name his preference. They think this may be either Newton D. Baker of Ohio or Speaker John N. Garner of Texas. Some of the Smith group are watching Garner closely as a new potential figure. They like his easy personality which some of them suggest is somewhat like Smith's. On the other hand, they regard Baker as having one of the finest minds in America. They would be happy with either as a candidate.

Both are rated in their minds as the two who today stand nearest the nomination. Some of Smith's closest friends feel it would be inadvisable for him to be nominated because of the disturbing effect of another religious fight. They say this without yielding one inch in their personal devotion and loyalty to him.

Peace-Lovers Mourn If Roosevelt fails of nomination, it will undoubtedly be due to Smith. Harmony Democrats are mournfully deploring the prospect of a prolonged factional fight. Republicans, thankful, are saying, "We can always count on the Democrats to help us." The pressure on Smith to desist and let Roosevelt go through is something like that to which the late Theodore Roosevelt was subjected in 1912 when he decided to oppose Taft. It is easy, under such circumstances, to accuse a man of being a party wrecker, of nursing overweening ambition, but such accusations do not move him.

He has made his decision. It is a grim path he has taken. The "Happy Warriors" smile does not flash so readily. He chews his cigar a little harder. From his office window high up in the world's tallest building—and Smith is president of the company that built it—can be seen through haze the end of Brooklyn bridge where Smith played as a boy. To the eye, it does not seem far. But to those who know the story, the climb has been hard. It took a strong man to make it. Smith is now conscious of that

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, works nights as a dance hall hostess at Dreamland. She lives with her extravagant mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her elder sister, MYRA, and her young brother, MIKE.

As Dreamland she meets and falls in love with handsome LARRY HARROWGATE, an artist. Later she learns he is engaged to ELIZABETH ROWLES, a debutante. She is heart-broken but continues to go about with him.

STEVEN BARCLAY, 57 and Ellen's employer, becomes deeply interested in her. Ellen quarrels with her mother, refusing to break a date with Larry to accept one from Barclay. Mrs. ROWDY, a store gossip, tells scandalous stories of Barclay's attentions to Ellen. The girl determines to see him no more.

Without Ellen's knowledge, Molly invites Barclay to dinner, borrowing money to make the apartment more attractive and to buy expensive food. Ellen is furious but when Barclay arrives she is compelled to greet him in a friendly way. Molly is delighted when Barclay gives Mike a much desired bicycle.

Later Ellen and Barclay go driving and he asks her to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

ELLEN brushed aside all coquetry and pretense as she told Steven how proud he had made her. She tried to make him understand how much she liked him, at the same time explaining that she did not love him. She was more successful than she had hoped to be. She should, of course, have explained that she was already hopelessly in love with Larry Harrowgate.

They parted as friends. Ellen would have preferred that they should see each other no more, but such a suggestion was impossible just as it was equally impossible to speak to him of the gossip at the store. The inference would be too plain. The one step to protect her from this gossip would be so obvious.

As she said good night Ellen determined that in the morning she would resign her position at the store and seek another.

She was not surprised to find Molly up and about. At the sound of the key in the door, Molly appeared, a cold duck sandwich in her hand. She offered half to Ellen, an offer which was refused, then perched herself on the arm of a chair to demand an account of the drive.

Ellen hung off her hat. "I'm too tired to talk," she said, moving toward the bedroom. "Nothing happened except that Mr. Barclay asked me to marry him."

"Oh, Ellen! You call that nothing!"

"And I refused him," Ellen stated with serene finality.

Molly's face was almost comical in its abrupt transition from delight to complete dismay.

"Ellen, you didn't!"

"I did. And furthermore in the morning I'm leaving Barclay's for another job."

SEE was very tired. To have refused Steven had been hard enough in itself. How could she bear a recapitulation of that refusal? How could she bear to meet Molly's hysterical reproaches? But Molly remained unexpectedly calm.

"If you don't feel that you love him," she said quietly, "you did the right thing."

The desperate move on which Molly had risked everything was successful. Ellen's surprise mastered her fatigue.

"I like him," she said wearily. "But I just don't love him. You've no idea how hard it was for me to refuse him!"

"I know I didn't understand in the first place," Molly said, feeling her way. "But I do now. You must make your own decision—I can't do it for you. You'll have to live with the man you marry, not I. I'd have been pleased for many, many reasons if you'd decided for Mr. Barclay—he would be so good to you."

"I know."

"It would have been so much easier for all of us," Molly sighed. Ellen began to feel selfish. She could not know, as Molly herself scarcely knew, that her mother was laying a deep and subtle trap. When Ellen went into the bedroom, she was unsure of herself and her wisdom.

Myra was in bed with a book on her knees. She looked up and smiled a welcome but she had determined to let Ellen alone and not ask questions.

Ellen, however, wanted a confidante. She came over to the bed, removed the book from Myra's hands and sat down.

"Steven Barclay asked me to marry him," she said abruptly.

"So soon, Ellen!"

"Too soon," Ellen answered darkly. She added, "I shouldn't have said that. I really think he rushed matters because he thought we all desperately needed a lift."

Myra, he was wonderful, wonderful! But I don't want to marry him."

"You won't be seeing him any more then?"

"Oh, I'll be seeing him."

There was a silence in the dim bedroom where only one light burned. Pale moonlight filtered through an open window, lay in patches on the scarred floor and shone on the big old-fashioned bed with one grave-eyed girl against the pillows and the other at her feet.

"Do you think it would be very wrong to marry a man you liked because you—because you couldn't marry one you thought you loved?" Ellen asked suddenly.

"Oh, I don't know, Ellen."

"The funny thing is I don't really know where I am," Ellen went on in a puzzled way. "My feelings whirl around like a shuttlecock. There'd be no problem at all if I didn't like Steven but I do! I can't decide whether I'm being mercenary and grasping or—"

"You're not that. You know you're not! Don't even imagine such things!"

"But if he didn't have any money—"

"That's extremely foolish of you," Myra interrupted sharply. "I'm not taking sides in this but I won't have you imagining that you're something you're not. You're every bit as good as Steven Barclay. What if he does have money? You're beautiful. You're sweet and good. You're well-born—"

"You sound like a novel of the '80s," Ellen broke in with a rueful little laugh.

"Just the same, it's true," persisted Myra.

"D'you know, I wasn't sure whether I was going to say 'yes' or 'no' until I did," Ellen said, starting out at the winking electric sign across the street.

"You'd know what you were going to say, wouldn't you, if it had been Larry Harrowgate?"

Ellen's face turned scarlet.

"He hasn't asked me," she answered, her cheeks continuing to flame. "I haven't a reason in the world to imagine he will when he's engaged to another girl."

"Has he—ever said anything that might suggest he meant to tell you about that?"

"No, he hasn't," Ellen admitted in a low, strained voice. "That's what makes me—well it doesn't make me hate him but it makes me think I should. Oh, why can't men be more fair?"

There was no answer to that question. Both girls knew it. Presently Ellen murmured a good night and slipped off to her own bed. Myra dropped her book to the floor and snapped off the light.

Ellen was awakened by a pounding on the door from the living room. Earlier in the night her sleep had been light and troubled but toward morning she had fallen into heavy slumber. Nevertheless, the terrific noise brought her wide-awake at once. Sure that the building must be on fire, she roused Myra, told her to wake Molly and Mike, grabbed her kimono and ran through the living room to the door. It was barely 6 o'clock.

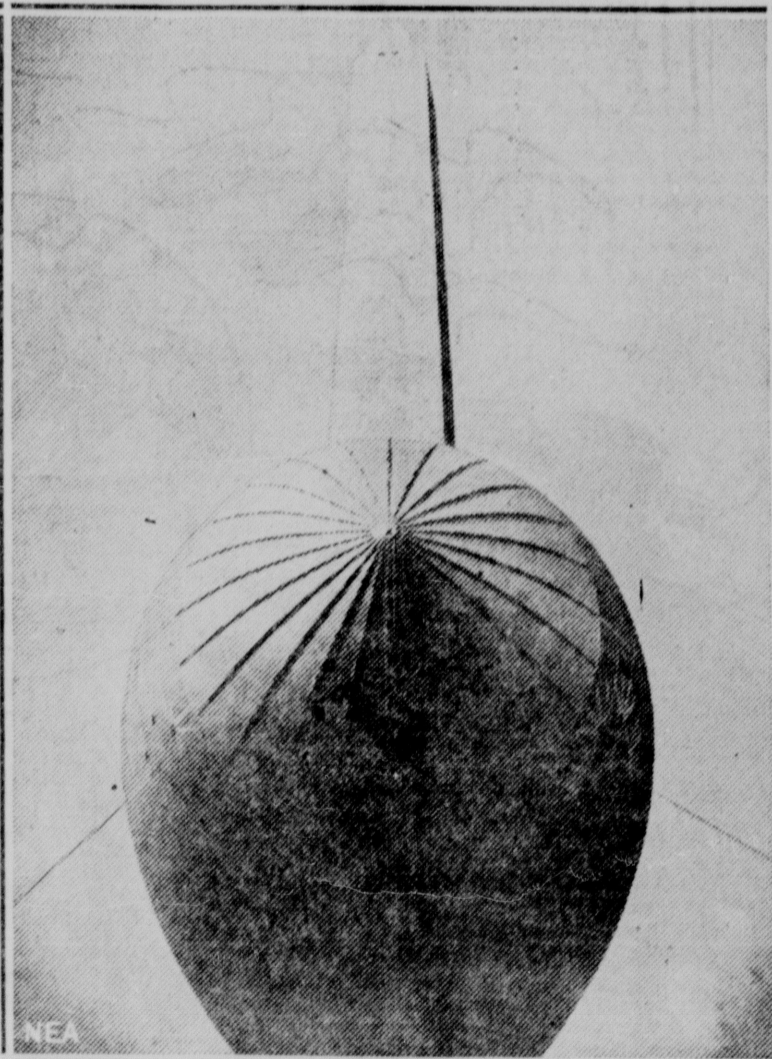

SHE jerked open the door and stood in foolish surprise, abruptly conscious of her disheveled attire. Facing her was John Farnum, owner of the building.

By emptying her pocketbook and Myra's they succeeded in piecing together the $60. It left them exactly $12 for the week's food and carfare.

Ellen saw that it was out of the question for her to resign her position. It would take at least a week to find another. Even the possible $25 from Dreamland Saturday would not be sufficient to tide them over.

Seattle, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Trolley cars will have no hostesses, bands will not greet visitors and there will be no cracked ice for riders of "owl" cars in this northwest metropolis, for Vic Meyers was defeated in his "personality" campaign for mayor.

Meyers, an orchestra leader who sought the city's highest office on a platform including these plans, with his campaign managed by Laura La Plante, film actress, polled only 4798 votes of a total of more than 111,000 cast in the primary yesterday. He ran a poor sixth in a field of nine.

John F. Dore, criminal attorney, led the field by a wide margin with 45,653 votes and his supporters took that as an indication he would be elected March 8 in his contest with Mayor Robert H. Harlin, who as runner-up, rolled 22,62

WORLD WAR CALLED HINDENBURG FROM RETIREMENT AT 67

Germany's Forgotten Old General Scored Biggest Triumphs of His Career In History's Greatest Comeback

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third of six exclusive stories on President Paul von Hindenburg, Germany's greatest modern figure, who is now a candidate for a second term in the national election to be held in Germany on Sunday, March 13.

By MILTON BRONNER

Berlin, Germany—Still in his very early twenties, Paul von Hindenburg — today a candidate for re-election as president of Germany in his 85th year — came to the crossroads which was to decide his career.

After the victorious close of the war with France, he had been sent back to his post in Hanover where he spent two years drilling his men. He had done well as a subaltern in Prussia's wars with Austria and the French; he had been cited for bravery in action and had won a decoration. Now it was time to take stock.

As a jockey, two paths were open to him: he could become a landed proprietor like his forefathers, or he could remain in the army. Prussia had always preferred junkers for its officer class. So he chose the army.

After four years he was appointed to the general staff and promoted to the rank of captain. He was assigned to a post at Stettin and, while there, he married the daughter of General von Sperling. That, too, was all in the tradition. Gertrude von Sperling was descended from a long line of military men. She understood military men.

Their marriage proved a boon and a blessing to both. Upon her death Hindenburg could say, in all sincerity, she had been more than a wife.

At 34 in the year 1881, he was appointed general staff officer of the First Division at Königsburg, in East Prussia. For Hindenburg it was like coming home.

During the World War, legend had it that while at Königsburg Hindenburg had studied all the country around Tannenberg and the Masurian lakes and had then sketched the plan he was to use in the World War against the Russians with such astonishing success.

That was simply patriotic bunk. What did happen was that he formed a very close friendship with his divisional commander. The latter was an old warrior and together they studied many of the battles of the past and sought to learn by the mistakes that had been made in those contests.

After a short service in command of an infantry company at Frankfurt, Hindenburg was transferred to Berlin with the rank of major and was attached to the general staff. Here he lived for 10 years.

In Berlin, he had first contacts with the royal family. When the old Emperor Wilhelm I died, Major Hindenburg was chosen as one of the guard of honor who watched over his body while it rested in the great Lutheran cathedral.

It was in Berlin, too, that he met his future "All Highest War Lord," not then kaiser, but simply Prince Wilhelm, with two lives between him and the throne.

Hindenburg did not like this flamboyant, talkative, play soldier; Wilhelm did not like the quiet, studious, demonstrative officer.

Out of this afterward grew the legend that the former kaiser had forced Hindenburg out of the army into retirement. That was not true. Wilhelm simply did not think Hindenburg worth troubling about. When he came to the throne he pushed forward more showy individuals, who knew how to boot-lick and flatter.

Hindenburg's old general and friend, Du Vernois, was given the post of Prussian minister of war. He attached Hindenburg to his own office.

In his new job Hindenburg had much to do with the recognition of the importance of engineering in modern warfare and with the introduction of heavy artillery with armies in the field.

In 1903, now 46, Hindenburg was given command of a regiment at the city of Oldenburg. When he was nearly 50, he was made major general and chief of staff of the Eighth army corps at Coblenz, where in later years the American army of occupation was to have its headquarters.

At 55 he was given the command of the Fourth Army Corps at Magdeburg. There he had about 1,000 officers under him. He differed from most of the Prussian higher officers of the period in that he did not look upon the common soldier as a mere automaton to be drilled and barked at. He tried to understand their viewpoint.

It may be because of this fair dealing with the men that when Germany was plunged into revolution, it was not dangerous for him to lead back home his beaten armies.

For eight years Hindenburg served in his important post and then, at the age of 64, voluntarily gave up his job and asked to be placed on retired pay.

His modesty and his frugality are shown by the fact that he scribbled this vastly important piece of news on a postcard to his son, who was already a young lieutenant.

"Just retired. Retained in the suite of the Third Regiment of Foot Guards. His Majesty has most graciously conferred upon the exalted Order of the Black Eagle. Do thou likewise. Heartiest salutations. DAD"

He prepared to spend his declining years in Hanover, and he rented an inexpensive flat in one of the suburbs. The monotony of this existence was sometimes broken by short trips abroad, notably to Italy.

He, like many others, was startled by the murder of the Austrian heir to the throne at Sarajevo in July 1914. He, like others, was disturbed by the gathering war clouds. He wondered whether he would be called back to service, but no call came.

In the meantime, the Russian steam roller had crushed into his beloved East Prussia. German towns were in possession of the czar's soldiery.

Then something happened as dramatic as in a stage play. Papa Hindenburg loved to go shopping. On the morning of August 2, 1914, he trudged down town made some purchases, and declined to have them sent home. He told the shopkeeper he would carry them.

"I have nothing else to do," he said, shaking his head sadly. "I find I am not wanted by the men in Berlin."

He came home, had his lunch and settled down to read. He had dropped into a gentle doze, the book falling from his hand. His wife came in and woke him.

"Eh, what, what?"

"A telegram, Paul."

He read it, without a trace of excitement. It was a wire from German military headquarters offering him employment during the war. He telegraphed his acceptance.

Then wires began to rain in on him—General Ludendorff was to be his chief-of-staff; he himself was to be commander-in-chief of the Third Army; he was to go back to his native East Prussia and free it from the iron grip of the Russians.

Out of retirement came this grim and gray-haired old warrior, ready as ever for the smell of battle and destined to make history that will live forever in the pages of time.

Tomorrow — An old man in the World War and his smashing victories. The drive through Poland and that cost the Russians a quarter of a million men. East Prussia, where Napoleon failed, in conquering the land of the czars. Verdun and the dark days for the Germans on the western front.

COMPTON NEWS

Compton — The Compton high school will appear on the local floor for the last time this season, when Steward high school invades the court for a return game with the regulars here on Tuesday evening, March 1st. A preliminary game has been arranged between the Steward and local grade team. Compton drew West Brooklyn in the district tournament to be held at Sterling on March 9-10-11-12, and to say the least who ever wins should evidently be the champions of Brooklyn township.

Hon. William Leech, judge of the Lee County court, gave a very interesting patriotic address at the Bi-Centennial celebration of Washington's birthday at the program given by Brooklyn Lodge No. 252, A. F. & A. M. hall on Monday evening.

John W. Banks acted as toastmaster. A. J. Bernardin, Worshipful Master, who read an account of Washington's life. A very interesting part of the program, along with Judge Leech's address was the reading of a newspaper printed in New York State in 1800, which sets up the account of the death of George Washington. The paper was read by Mrs. Dee D. Thompson, who compared the makeup with the present day news paper. This valuable paper belongs to Mrs. Clara Fairchild of this city. A six-thirty banquet was served by the Eastern Star. After the program the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Isadore Kaufman and Donald A. Carnahan spent the week here at their respective homes. They accompanied Mrs. Glenn Carnahan of Chicago, here Saturday.

Five threatened to take one of our business places late Tuesday morning, when the roof of Dr. Powell's restaurant building was ignited by some hot coals that had come up through the chimney. Although the fire hadn't made any headway, when discovered, the city fire carts were brought out and held in readiness. With a small portion of chemicals the fire was extinguished saving the day for the restaurant business in Compton.

Mrs. Vera Mae Hospers of Dixon visited over Saturday and Sunday with her father, Dr. C. G. Pool at the Compton hospital.

George J. Politich is confined to his bed due to an attack of pleurisy.

Mayor H. M. Chaon has been confined to his bed for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Fuller and son, Arthur of Toulon visited over Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Fuller and daughter.

George Swope of Goodman, Wisconsin, called on his brother and sister, Roy and Mabel Swope Saturday.

The O. E. S. will have a card party at their hall following their regular meeting of March 1st. A scramble lunch will be served. All members, and Masons are invited to attend.

Earl E. Kleier was brought to the local hospital Friday morning with a broken leg, sustained when he fell from a load of hay, which he was moving to his new location near Earlville. After the leg was set, and cast applied, Mr. Kleier was taken to his home.

Mrs. E. N. Swope of Steward submitted to a tonsil operation at the local hospital Sunday morning.

Mrs. Charles Carnahan, and Miss Hazel Mae Shaw of Mendota were on special nursing duty at the local hospital, during the past week.

Helen Ganz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ganz was taken to her home five days following an appendix operation at the Compton hospital.

Zene Johnson had the misfortune of fracturing several ribs and his left wrist, when he fell from a load of corn fodder, which he was hauling in from the field at his home on Friday morning of the past week.

Adam Mehlbrech is still confined to his room, due to severe illness for the past two weeks.

The Melugin school, or better known as the Burg school, is giving a program and dance at the Royal Neighbors hall on Saturday evening, February 27th, at 7:30. Miss Maxine Gilmore is the teacher.

You will find the world and state news in The Telegraph as well as the City and County news. Many who formerly subscribed for the metropolitan papers claim they get all the important news of the day in the Dixon Evening Telegraph.
